Stick up for Me!

Right after class you see Anna, a girl from one of your classes. She is getting something out of her locker near a loud group of girls. The girls are laughing and talking loudly about Anna. They say, “Anna is such a lesbo!”

1. What do you do or say in this situation? Why?
2. What could happen if you say something?
3. What could happen if you don’t say something?
4. Who could you talk to about this situation?

Stick up for Me!

You’re hanging out after school with a group of friends. Two boys from the local elementary school are walking across the street. One of your friends is laughing and yells, “Look at those little fags!”

1. What do you do or say in this situation? Why?
2. What could happen if you say something?
3. What could happen if you don’t say something?
4. Who could you talk to about this situation?

Stick up for Me!

Your friend Luke keeps “sexting” really inappropriate messages to your friend Ruby. You find Ruby crying outside of class over the texts he sent her. What do you do or say in this situation? Why?

1. What do you do or say in this situation? Why?
2. What could happen if you say something?
3. What could happen if you don’t say something?
4. Who could you talk to about this situation?
Stick up for Me!

Your science teacher has just given out lab partner assignments. You classmate is upset because he’s been assigned to partner with Ryan. You ask him why he doesn’t want to be partners with Ryan. He responds loudly, “I’m not even sure if Ryan is a guy or a girl. Look at what “It’s” wearing today.”

1. What do you do or say in this situation? Why?

2. What could happen if you say something?

3. What could happen if you don't say something?

4. Who could you talk to about this situation?

Stick up for Me!

You’ve just finished P.E. class and everyone is in the locker room changing. You see someone secretly taking out their camera and take a photo of your classmates while they are in their underwear.

1. What do you do or say in this situation? Why?

2. What could happen if you say something?

3. What could happen if you don't say something?

4. Who could you talk to about this situation?

Stick up for Me!

In English class two of your classmates are making jokes about Gabriel, another student in school who is not in the class. They are loudly talking about how Gabriel is “such a fag.” Your teacher hears this but says nothing. You’re surprised the teacher isn’t saying anything.

1. What do you do or say in this situation? Why?

2. What could happen if you say something?

3. What could happen if you don't say something?

4. Who could you talk to about this situation?